

A clear boundary around the current evidence

What the current results support

The movement features contain information related to the five walking conditions.

Keeping source videos separate makes the classification result more cautious.

What they do not yet support

They do not estimate performance for a new person, clinic, camera, or source video.

Every example helped shape the movement features before the final classifier test.

Next valid test: separate complete source videos before any feature learning begins.